TWIDDELMUFF

BUTTONS & BOWS

This textured hand muff is an ingenious item to help those with dementia. By King Cole.
TWIDDLER MUFF

Twiddlemuffs are double thickness handmuffs that are given to those with dementia to provide a stimulation activity for restless hands. Red and yellow are the colours that people with dementia find easiest to see, and the buttons, ribbons and bobbles are designed to be calming as well as creating interesting textures both inside and outside the muff.

WHO WOULD LIKE THIS ITEM?
Knit for Peace is an initiative of the Charities Advisory Trust that matches knitters with good causes. Its distribution service is a much-needed resource to help knitters support projects both overseas and in the UK, and sends out knitted items to more than 80 outlets including hospitals, women’s refuges, refugee drop-in centres, prisons, community groups and hospices. Knit for Peace is currently looking for adult and children’s clothing, baby teddies, bed socks and adult hats, plus specialist items such as the twiddlemuffs featured here, which the charity distributes via the NHS to patients in hospitals. As well as knitted items, the charity also takes donations of yarn, equipment and money to sustain the work it does. For more information on how you can use your skills for the charity, visit www.knitforpeace.org.uk, where you’ll also find lots of free patterns to help you complete the required items.

Get creative with textures! Knitted bobbles and soft fur yarn are used on this twiddlemuff to create different raised effects.

TO MAKE UP
Sew a selection of buttons randomly across the stocking stitch sections. Sew the twiddlemuff into a tube along the long edges. Tuck the lining into the tube using the marked row as a fold line. Secure the folded edge with a line of running stitches. Stitch the cast-off and cast-on edges together at the other end to secure the lining in place. Run ribbon or cords through the eyelets.
